H.E. explained that the religious authority extinguished the flames of discord when it expressed the honorable Sunni component within us, in addition to its stance in the defensive jihad fatwa and counterterrorism. The religious authority is a divine blessing, envied by some, H.E. clarified, stating that Iraq now possesses a mature political experience. Once the recipient of advice in Arab and Islamic conferences, it now offers solutions and bridges viewpoints among the region's factions.

H.E. pointed to the significant rise in reconstruction and development currently underway and in the coming years, expressing confidence in success regarding services and water management after agreements with the Turkish side. H.E. highlighted the agricultural and industrial opportunities in Muthanna, urging the spread of positivity and optimism, as speaking positively is a form of gratitude to Allah.
