Sayyid Al-Hakeem: Al-Jubour: a manifestation of patriotism and evidence of Iraqi diversity.

At the guesthouse of Al-Jubour tribes hosted by Sheikh Takleef Abdulali Al-Jubouri, and attended by a gathering of sheiks and dignitaries of Al-Jubour in Al-Hamza Al-Sharqi district, Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem emphasized the importance of engaging with Iraqi tribes and deepening relationships with them. H.E. pointed out that Al-Jubour is a manifestation of patriotism, illustrating Iraq's diversity and the society's rejection of sectarianism.

H.E. stated that Iraq is experiencing an unprecedented state of stability, emphasizing the importance of service priorities after overcoming previous challenges that Iraqis surpassed through their sacrifices. H.E. indicated that Prime Minister Sudan's government, along with local governments, are eager to provide services with good intentions and positive motives.

H.E. wished for Diwaniyah to take off and catch up with the developed provinces, holding everyone responsible for that. H.E. said that Diwaniyah is the agricultural capital of Iraq, and therefore, developing its agricultural sector is a pressing necessity to ensure that Diwaniyah provides the food basket for Iraq. H.E. noted that 75% of Diwaniyah's land is suitable for agriculture, including the cultivation of barley.
