Sayyid Al-Hakeem: Research Centers Are Key to Develop Interim, Strategic Plans

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers' Alliance, welcomed a delegation from Al-Refd Center for Media and Strategic Studies, highlighting the pivotal role of research centers in shaping government development plans at both the interim and strategic levels. His Eminence urged these centers to assume their responsibilities, strengthen integration and communication among themselves, and build trust with governmental institutions.

H.E. underscored the necessity of safeguarding political, security, and social stability in the country, stressing the importance of transforming this stability into a lasting condition. H.E. emphasized that achieving this priority is a shared responsibility requiring collective efforts.

Addressing regional developments, H.E. reaffirmed his support for the government's efforts in service delivery, relief operations, and political initiatives amid the crises in Gaza and Lebanon. H.E. also called for the implementation of the resolutions from the Arab and Islamic summit held in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.
