Sayyid Al-Hakeem Affirms Iraqi Components Unity, Diversity During Meeting Babyliyon Parliamentary Bloc

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers' Alliance, met with the head of Babyliyon Parliamentary Bloc, Mr. Aswan Al-Kildani, alongside the head of the Christian Endowment, and several members of the bloc.

During the meeting, they addressed the latest developments in Iraq and the region, as well as the general well-being of the esteemed Christian community. Sayyid Al-Hakeem reiterated the value of the rich diversity that Allah has bestowed upon our beloved country and the importance of leveraging it to build stronger relationships with the international community.

Furthermore, His Eminence highlighted the necessity of unity among all components of society, particularly the Christian community, as a cornerstone for achieving Iraq’s cohesion and stability. H.E. emphasized the collective responsibility of all stakeholders to sustain and strengthen the current stability, transforming it into a foundation for long-term peace. Additionally, H.E. stressed the importance of safeguarding domestic harmony and maintaining the readiness of our security forces to address any challenges arising from regional dynamics.

With regard to Syria, H.E. stressed the importance of fostering stability and empowering the Syrian people to manage their nation’s affairs, while ensuring the protection and inclusion of all societal groups in the political decision-making process. Thus, contributing to the regional balance and stability.

This meeting falls within the framework of Sayyid Al-Hakeem efforts to strengthen national unity and stability through dialogue and cooperation amongst different parties.
