Sayyid Al-Hakeem Discusses Political Developments, Security Readiness with Popular Mobilization Authority Leader

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, head of the National State Powers Alliance, met with Mr. Falih Al-Fayyadh, head of the Popular Mobilization Authority, to discuss the latest political developments in Iraq and the importance of maintaining security and military readiness. The discussion underscored the need to preserve the Popular Mobilization Forces (PMF) as a cornerstone of Iraq’s national defense system and to support their role in maintaining security and stability across the country.

During the meeting, Sayyid Al-Hakeem highlighted Iraq’s current state of political, security, and social stability, emphasizing that all parties have the responsibility to sustain and strengthen this stability. H.E. stressed the importance of enhancing security and military preparedness to address regional developments, advocating for a balanced approach that avoids exaggerating and underestimating challenges.

H.E. reiterated the call for unity and national cohesion to confront internal and external challenges. He emphasized that collaboration and coordination among all national forces are the most effective means to bolster Iraq’s security and stability.
