Sayyid Al-Hakeem Emphasizes Youth Empowerment Importance for Community Service, Sustainable Development

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers' Alliance, met with leaders from the Central Youth Office of the Al-Hikma National Movement, highlighting the significant efforts made by the office in a short period. H.E. praised their field-oriented approach and the use of modern communication methods to engage with the youth.

H.E. stressed the importance of recognizing the youth's proportion within Iraqi society, noting that this demographic presents both an opportunity and a challenge. H.E. emphasized the need to harness their energy and empower them to contribute positively to the nation. Sayyid Al-Hakeem pointed out that Al-Hikma National Movement set an exemplary model by integrating youth into key organizational roles, particularly within the political and executive offices, making the movement distinctly youth-oriented.

H.E. also underscored the necessity of continuous training, development, and staying updated with current events to enhance the youth's capacity for effective and innovative solutions. H.E. reaffirmed that serving the people remains the highest priority for Al-Hikma National Movement, urging members to utilize all available resources and think outside the box to achieve this mission.

Addressing economic concerns, Sayyid Al-Hakeem highlighted Iraq's reliance on oil as its sole revenue source, calling for the activation of other productive sectors, including agriculture, industry, tourism, investment, and modern technology. H.E. emphasized that Iraq holds significant potential in all these areas, which must be leveraged to develop the national economy and achieve sustainable development.
