Sayyid Al-Hakeem Discusses Stability Importance, Rejecting Escalatory Rhetoric with Sheikh Jamal Al-Dari

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers Alliance, received Sheikh Jamal Al-Dari, Secretary-General of the Iraqi National Project, for a meeting that addressed the latest political developments and ways to support stability and development across the country.

His Eminence emphasized the need to preserve the political, social, and security stability achieved in the current phase, noting that this stability is the result of the sacrifices and pure blood of all Iraqis in their battle against terrorism in all its forms.

H.E. stressed the importance of rejecting escalatory rhetoric, calling for prioritizing the public interest over individual agendas and fostering an environment conducive to fair electoral practices, where competition remains within political and service-oriented frameworks.

His Eminence also highlighted the importance of stability in Syria, affirming that the neighboring country’s security has a direct impact on Iraq and the wider region, pointing to the many shared interests linking the two nations.

H.E. renewed the call for the international community to shoulder its responsibilities in stopping Israel’s repeated aggressions against Gaza, Syria, and Lebanon, and to work towards achieving lasting peace and ensuring the return of displaced persons to their homes.
