Sayyid Al-Hakeem Meets Muhsin Al-Mandalawi, Affirms National Interest, Transfrom Election Pledges to Actionable Programs

His Eminence Sayyid Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers' Alliance, received in His office this morning Mr. Muhsin Al-Mandalawi, Head of Al-Asas Alliance. During the meeting, both sides reviewed the latest developments in the political scene in Iraq and the region, and discussed key files related to electoral entitlements, the election of the President of the Republic, and the formation of the new government.

His Eminence emphasized the necessity of overcoming the current crisis by placing the public interest above narrow personal interests, stressing the importance of transforming electoral pledges into practical and realistic programs capable of achieving tangible change and responding to the aspirations of citizens.

His Eminence further noted that Iraq is facing an economic challenge associated with fluctuations in oil prices, indicating that addressing this issue requires revitalizing productive sectors, rationalizing public expenditure, and reinforcing the role of the private sector in order to ensure sustainable diversification of national income sources.
