Sayyid Al-Hakeem Affirms Values-Based, Educational Work to Prepare Mindful, Impactful Generation

Within the activities of the Baghdad Diwan, His Eminence Sayyid Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers' Alliance, met with a gathering of the leadership of the Euphrates Scout Education Association, in a meeting that brought together both the spiritual and developmental dimensions.

H.E. opened the meeting by offering condolences on the anniversary of the martyrdom of Imam Mohammed Al-Jawad (peace be upon him), presenting an overview of his noble life and the challenges he faced during his imamate, and illustrating how he transformed trials into gifts and obstacles into opportunities.

In his address, H.E. affirmed that scout work is an integrated system for building character scientifically, ethically, and in terms of values, noting that the quality of leadership is measured by the extent of the impact it leaves, and that the journey of impact knows no end – rather, it demands unwavering resolve and steadfast determination.

H.E. called on those present to take the initiative and claim their roles rather than awaiting them from others, affirming that the very act of claiming a role contributes to shaping and consolidating it. H.E. stressed the necessity of ensuring that all work be done sincerely for Allah and in preparation for the reappearance of the Master of the Age (may Allah hasten his noble relief).

H.E. concluded the meeting by inviting those present to acquaint themselves with Al-Hikma National Movement, its symbols, and its leadership, and to learn of their role in serving Iraq and building its future.
